Introducing all the games they've played!

From the 112 minigames and seven boards, introducing the ones that everyone played in the commercial, along with their impressions.

Rhythm Minigames

Feel the rhythm and cook♪

Copycat Curry

Copy Waluigi's pose using your entire body. If you strike the right pose, spice is added to the curry.

Sae: Everyone put so much enthusiasm as they shouted and posed, it felt like a club activity!

Ryubi: Everyone was saying that they had no sense of rhythm, but I think I did the worst. LOL

Soup Troupe

Swing the Joy-Con controller vertically in rhythm to cut the vegetables and make some soup.

Mio: I thought this needed teamwork because four players play together while calling out to each other!

Yuma: You lose your own rhythm when you hear the other players calling out. LOL

Use your arms as wings in Paratroopa Flight School

Koopa Paratroopa Taxi

Two players must cooperate to carry passengers to their desired destination. Hold a Joy-Con controller in each hand and fly in the sky as if you are Koopa Paratroopa.

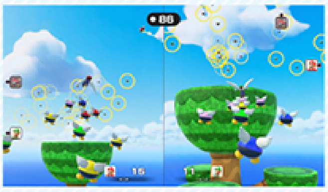
Passengers with balance precautions!?

Sae: My arms got a whole workout – it was like I was in a gym! LOL It was also interesting that the way you carry them depends on the passenger.

Mio: When we picked up Bowser, I certainly felt the weight and felt like my body was pulled down.

Sky Battle

Two players compete to see who collected the most Para-Biddybuds. The trick is to control it well by moving your arms up and down and carefully adjusting the tilt of the controller.



There are also Para-Biddybuds that fly in flocks

Ryubi: Your arm-flapping movement is linked to the game, so it really felt as if I was flying!

Yuma: It felt really good the moment you ride the wind. I was going all out so I'm out of breath. LOL

Various genres of Minigames

Prime Cut

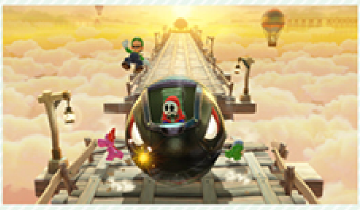
A 2 vs. 2 minigame where you cut the steak in half. The team that cuts it perfectly in half wins.

Cage Catch

Team up in three to move the cage and capture the swimming solo player.

Defuse or Lose

Two players will cooperate together to put out the fire with a Ground Pound and stop King Bob-omb from exploding.



Sunset Standoff

One player steers Bomber Bill left and right to try to hit the other three players.

Tiny Triathlon

Move your Joy-Con around in various ways and reach the goal faster than anyone else.

Slappy-Go-Round

Read the timing and try to slap your opponent. The first to get five hits wins.

A Journey Visiting the Drifting Islands of Concordia

Concordia, the place where Mario and Luigi will be adventuring this time, is a world where one landmass has broken apart into "drifting islands". This article introduces the unique islands that the two will be visiting.

A ship-like island traversing the seas

Shipshape Island

A ship-like island that will serve as the base for Mario and Luigi's adventure. The landmark is "Uni-Tree", which is the large tree standing in the center. The two will ride on Shipshape Island and journey to the drifting islands that have been scattered throughout the ocean.

Fly all the way to the drifting islands by using the big cannon on the tip of Shipshape Island.

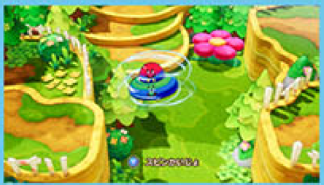
What is Mario & Luigi: Brothership?



An Action RPG where Mario and Luigi explore the islands floating in the ocean. You can pave the way using the brothers' cooperative actions both on the field and in battles.

An island overflowing with rugged rocks and art

Rumbla Island

There are many residents who like crafting things, and you can admire many creative works throughout the island.

▲Masterpiece sculptures of Rumbla Island

A little detour

Islets

These small islands exist in each sea. You might be able to experience something new if you decide to drop by.

Dance lovers gather

Twistee Island

This island is a popular tourist destination. It is also famous as a place where dance lovers gather and is known for MaxGlam Wax, which keeps your hair in place no matter how much you dance.

An island full of sand, full of danger

Allsand Island

A vast desert covers the island. There are thrilling experiences waiting, like encounters with dangerous monsters or quicksand that will try to pull you under.

A little detour

Reefs

Strange-shaped reefs that you might come across during your adventure. Apparently, there is a passionate fan of these reefs.

Where two terrains mix together

Heatfreeze Island

An island that is half ice and half volcano. Apparently, the residents of the two villages on the island, Freezin Village and Boilin Village, fight each other every opportunity they get.

In each village you can enjoy the "Potato Gelato", a frozen solid gelato and "Hottato Stew", a piping-hot stew respectively

THAT rival army led by a charismatic leader | Bowser's Army

Bowser's Army doesn't care whether they're familiar with the place. They plan to invade Concordia.

Bowser

King of the Koopas. He sees Mario and Luigi as a threat.

Bowser Jr.

Bowser's naughty and spoiled son. He helps his father's invasion in Concordia.

Bowser's Minions

Admires Bowser. Their strength is in their numbers.

A mysterious organization who works in the shadows | Zokket and His Troops

By expanding a mysterious substance called Glohm, they seem to be preparing a fishy plan.

Zokket

A mysterious figure. This calculating strategist is actually pretty bad at remembering names.

Zok Troopers

Troops that are deployed all around Zokket's territories.

Extension Corps

They are Zokket's loyal subordinates, but unfortunately, their boss does not seem to trust them.

ゼルダの伝説 THE LEGEND OF ZELDA 知恵のかりもの

Just what sort of princess is Princess Zelda?

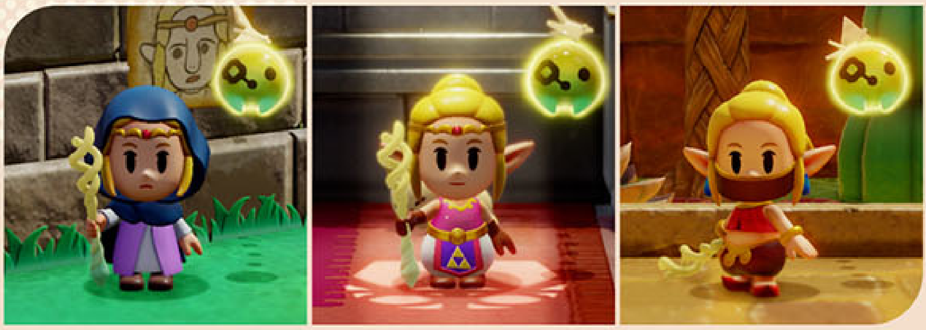
Zelda, royal princess of the Kingdom of Hyrule. The swordsman, Link, and the king of Hyrule have been stolen away by the mysterious rifts appearing across the kingdom, and the princess has stepped up to tackle this crisis herself. Let's take a look at the different aspects of Princess Zelda that appear in this adventure!

▲Zelda's ethereal companion, Tri

Princess Zelda Across the Legend of Zelda Series

Despite having the same name, Zelda is not always the same person in each game. Link, the familiar swordsman in green, has been the protagonist over the course of the series, but Zelda sets out on an adventure in the starring role for the first time in The Legend of Zelda: Echoes of Wisdom.

Change Outfits to Suit the Adventure



Princess Zelda chooses outfits and accessories to best fit the time and place.

Are those cat clothes?!

Is this the princess's way of befriending animals...?

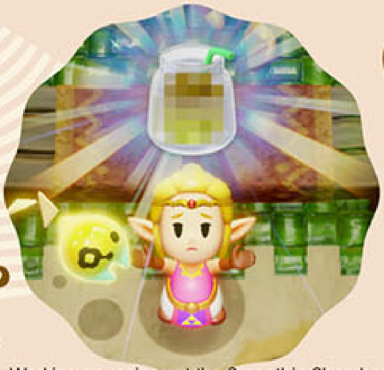
Keeping in touch with the kingdom's people

It's a princess's duty to address the concerns of her people. The way she uses their language to connect with people is incredible!

Surprising Strength?

We've spotted Princess Zelda carrying an echo she's created. Does she secretly have extraordinary strength?

A picky palate?



Working on recipes at the Smoothie Shop has resulted in an Unfortunate Smoothie. By the look on her face, the flavor must be puzzling.

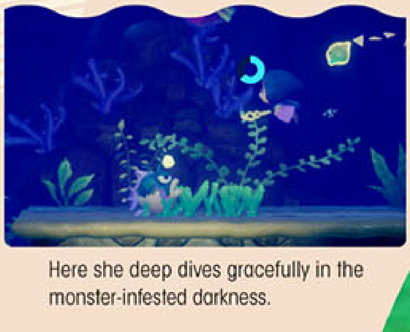
Special Ability: Sleep Anywhere?

Snoozing on the roof of a castle?! Zelda seems to bring her favorite bed to all sorts of places.

Now her bed is on top of the trees. How does she sleep a wink with that monster singing so loudly?

An Accomplished Swimmer and Rider

Princess Zelda has gone on a solo swim all the way to the Sea Zora Village.



Here she deep dives gracefully in the monster-infested darkness.

Astride her horse, Zelda gallops across the land with ease. Tri deserves credit for keeping up with her even when she speeds up.

Adventuring With Monsters!?

With the power to learn and create echoes, Zelda can manifest objects like beds, tables, or pieces of meat at will. She can even use this power to make echoes of monsters—and with a swing of her rod they will join the princess and fight at her side. Let's take a look at a few of the monsters who make dependable allies.

Ecology of the Triumvirate

Recently, three enormous King Salmonids have been spotted together in the Splatlands. Grizzco calls this troop the "Triumvirate". In preparation for the coming attack from the Triumvirate, we will introduce their behavior.

Horrorboros

A King Salmonid with a well-developed body through grueling waterfall climbing. They attack with powerful bombs made by mixing electricity stored in their body with ink, but the bombs burst on the spot when hit by egg cannon or ink.

▲Horrorboros making a bomb. Destroy the bomb before it's fired!

Cohozuna

A King Salmonid characterized by a giant body. They attack the nearest Clock Puncher and occasionally make big jumps to emit a shockwave.

They have an excellent jumping ability that is hard to imagine from their huge body. ▶

Grizzco Weapons

Dubious weapons modified by Grizzco. Sometimes they are mixed in with the supplied weapons by mistake (?). In exchange for their large ink consumption, they boast outstanding performances, far superior to normal weapons, and may be reliable weapons when fighting the powerful Triumvirate.

When can they be used?

1. When the supplied weapon icon is shown as "?" (random)
   - ? It may be a Grizzco Weapon
   - ? It is a Grizzco Weapon
2. When the Triumvirate appears

Megalodontia

The biggest King Salmonid of the Triumvirate. They lock on a Clock Puncher and attack from underground with their mouth wide open, swallowing everything around it, even other Salmonids.

▲Sometimes they accidentally swallow a bomb Horrorboros made.

▲Their weak point is the bump on the back.

When does the Triumvirate appear?

When the Salmometer is in the shape shown on the right, the Triumvirate will appear in an XTRAWAVE. An XTRAWAVE may occur after clearing Wave 3, and the more the Salmometer is filled, the higher the probability of occurrence.

Memo from Mr. Grizz

Every crisis can be an opportunity. For example, Megalodontia's bite will one-shot not just you but its own Salmonid allies. And if you play it smart, you can lure Horrorboros into launching its bomb at a group of Salmonids. Exploit the enemy's friendly fire for maximum job efficiency!

Nintendo Museum
On-site REPORT

The Nintendo Uji Ogura Plant, originally known as the Uji Plant, was built in 1969. Since then, it has been used to manufacture Hanafuda and western playing cards. It also operated as a customer service center for product repairs. In 2024, it underwent a transformation and was reborn as a museum.

◀ Nintendo Uji Ogura Plant 1988

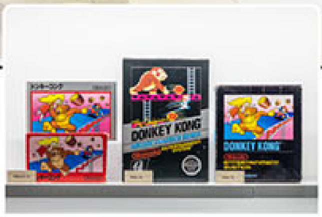
The Nintendo Museum opened on October 2nd on the site of Nintendo's former Uji Ogura Plant, a land from which amusements once sprung forth. We paid a visit to this facility where you can discover the history of the entertainment that Nintendo has been offering, from Hanafuda to Nintendo Switch, and experience its entertainment. We'll walk you through the entire facility, which is full of things to see and play with!

Nintendo's Ideas on Play

Explore

The giant controllers hanging from the ceiling indicate where the displays for each hardware platform are located. You are free to explore the exhibits in any order, whether you wish to trace Nintendo's history starting with Famicom or see the displays of your favorite hardware first.

*Photography and recording are not permitted in the 2nd-floor exhibition area.



The exhibits are divided into categories of hardware, from Famicom to Nintendo Switch. The titles released for each platform is lined up. In addition to the Japanese version, the North American and European versions are also on display, so you can see the differences among regions.

There are also exhibits on various themes. Many non-video game products, such as toys and board games, are also on display. You can see the history of Nintendo's creations with your own eyes.

Discover

There are Nintendo characters all over the museum. One of the fun things to do is to look around the exhibits and see where they are.

Use coins for the interactive exhibits

Experience

Each play ticket is loaded with 10 coins, which are needed to experience the interactive exhibits. The number of coins required depends on each interactive exhibit, so you should carefully choose which ones you want to try!

You can choose to have either Mario or your Mii image printed on your play ticket.

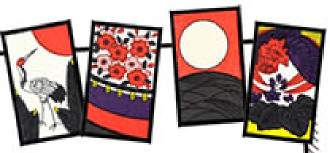
Experience the Beginning with the

Workshops

Hanafuda playing cards are the origin of Nintendo's creations. Two kinds of Hanafuda workshops are available, where guests can experience making and playing Hanafuda in a unique way.

*Visits to the workshop require same-day reservations.
A separate fee is required to participate.

What is Hanafuda?



The current Hanafuda playing cards are said to have been created in the mid-Edo period, starting with Tensho Karuta in the Azuchi-Momoyama period and Unsun Karuta in the early Edo period. There are 48 cards in total, with 4 cards assigned to each month from January to December. It is an intellectual game that requires good judgment, courage, strategy, and composure.

Let's Make Hanafuda!

Out of the 12 months, you can select the month with your favorite pattern and make 4 Hanafuda playing cards. There are color examples, so you can paint them the same colors as the example or any colors you like. It's interesting to see how each person's personality comes out in their cards!

Participation fee: 2,000 yen
Duration: Approx. 60 minutes *Includes tidying up

Craft Room

Try Playing Hanafuda!

In this workshop, you will play Hanafuda playing cards using special rules for the museum. First, you will listen to an explanation of how to play, and then you start playing. There is a camera on the play mat, and the AI will tell you what to do next, so you can have fun playing even if you don't know the rules.

Now they've become the "face" of the game...?!

Your First Encounters

These poor characters are encountered early in the adventure, and they're just used as stepping stones to help the protagonists grow stronger. But they are now establishing themselves as mascots of the game. Introducing some of those lovable enemy characters.

Goomba

It says here, "Goombas are underlings of underlings. No standout features to note." That's totally rude!

—— Goombella

The first foe that appears in many of the Mario adventures. They get easily defeated by Mario, such as by being stomped on, but rumor says the Goombas have defeated Mario quite a number of times.

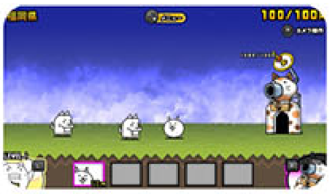
Doge

A lovable Shiba and Battle Cat's rival(?)

—— Enemy Guide

Doge is the first enemy encountered by the Battle Cats, only to be casually knocked aside by the rampaging felines. Despite this, they are a thoughtful friend who sends birthday gifts to Cat every year.



▷ The Battle Cat Unite!

Mettaur

THEY'RE QUIET AND SHY, SO TRY NOT TO DISTURB THEM!

—— Mr.Prog (Mega Man Battle Network 4 Red Sun/Blue Moon)

A type of virus found all over the cyberworld. They are familiar as teaching materials for virus busting, but they are actually quite well-balanced both offensively and defensively, and can become a troublesome opponent when teamed up with other viruses.

Zombie

This common hostile mob moans and shambles in the gloom, appearing by night and in dark places.

Zombies burn in direct sunlight, unless they're wearing helmets or standing in water. They're slow but dangerous in numbers, such as when they gather to attack villages.

▷ Minecraft

Slime

These mainstays of the monster world are beloved by all. They're round, ridiculous rascals you simply can't stay mad at.

—— Description

These wobbly blobs of goo populate the start of many an adventure, only to be summarily slain by the hero. Take care if confronted with a group of them, as they may merge into a formidable king slime!

Bowser

The King of the Koopas who often threatens world peace. Known for his arrogance, he plots to invade the Mushroom Kingdom. He has fought Mario in countless battles, but he always ends up getting defeated...? Despite this, he seems to have a soft spot for his son, Bowser Jr.

Mario series

Here come the troublemakers!

Troublemakers from various series are here! We'll introduce you to the charms of these characters - who usually stand in your way as powerful enemies - from their well-known characteristics to their unexpected sides. Read these pages, and you'll surely be captivated by them!

Bowser Jr.

The spoiled son of Bowser who must have what he wants. His bib is decorated with drawn-on fangs resembling his beloved father's mouth.

Mario series

Koopalings

Bowser's loyal minions who use all kinds of tricks to get in Mario's way. Each of them has a unique laugh.

Mario series

He rides into battle in his beloved Eggmobile.

Dr.Eggman

Dr. Eggman is an evil genius scientist with an IQ of over 300 who plans to establish his own world, Eggman Land. All of his plans have been thwarted by Sonic, and defeating Sonic is his lifelong dream, but deep down, he seems to have some fondness for Sonic. He never learns to give up.

Sonic series

DJ Octavio

The leader of the Octarian army engaged in a life-or-death battle with the Inklings. He has repeatedly attempted to invade the squid world. This indomitable Octarian always gets back up and fights, no matter how many times he's defeated.

Splatoon series

Bulborb

Bulborb is a creature of the Oculus genus. It'll try to swallow anything it sees, sometimes resulting in Pikmin being munched on. It's nocturnal, so you can find it sleeping during the day, looking cute.

Pikmin series

King Bonby

One of Bonby's transformations, King Bonby will torment you with all kinds of fiendish acts, like taking away your hard-earned fortune, throwing away your cards, or even abducting you to the Planet Bombylus. He makes the normal Bonby look (almost) cute in comparison...

Momotaro Dentetsu series

His trademark weapon is a hammer with a star on each end.

King Dedede

King Dedede, the self-proclaimed king of peaceful Dream Land, often causes trouble with his minions. In addition to hammer attacks, he can also inhale and spit out, perhaps trying to mimic Kirby. He has a surprisingly caring side, rushing to Kirby's aid when he is in trouble and fighting to protect Waddle Dees.

Kirby series

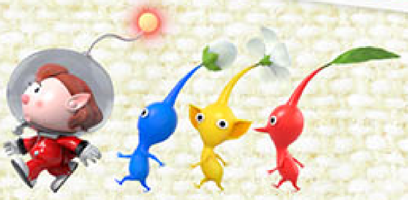
PIKMIN 4 ピクミン



\ Chock full of personality: / Pikmin Karuta

Currently there are a total of 9 Pikmin species in Pikmin 4. We will introduce their unique characteristics in the form of Karuta cards.

What is "karuta"?

Karuta is a traditional Japanese card game, where the cards consist of pairs of "yomifuda" (cards with only words) and "efuda" (cards with illustrations of the text). The yomifuda is read out loud, and the aim is to find its corresponding efuda faster than your opponents. To better distinguish the cards, the efuda largely displays the first sound (letter) of its accompanying text, often on one of its upper corners.

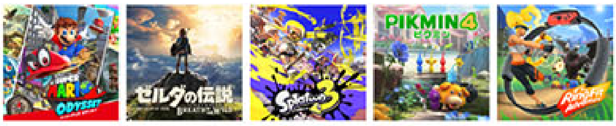
The Anatomy of Nintendo Sound Clock Alarmo™

ニンテンドーサウンドクロック アラーモ

Alarmo is an alarm clock that plays music and sounds from games, and it's a little out of the ordinary… For example, it responds to your body movements by producing sounds or by moving the on-screen characters.

Alarms

Choose from 5 games



Alarmo contains a total of 35 different alarms sounds, with 7 alarm varieties called "scenes" for each game. You can wake up to the familiar sounds of the games you've played.

You can choose your alarm sound based on your mood, or you can let Alarmo decide randomly!

Sounds change based on your movements

Alarmo's motion sensor detects your actions! You might hear the sound of coins when you move around, and when you get out of bed, the alarm stops automatically after playing a victory fanfare. The sounds might get more intense the longer you stay in bed…!

Size

Height	110mm
Width	99.6mm
Length	91.6mm
Weight	225 g

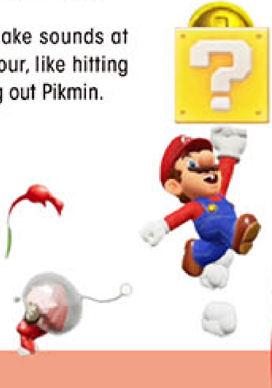
Dial / Confirm button

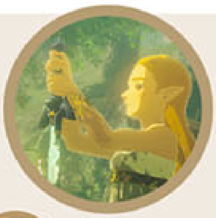
Sleepy Sounds

Ambient game music will play automatically when you get into bed at night, helping you wind down before going to sleep.

Hourly Chime

Characters will make sounds at the top of every hour, like hitting a ? Block or pulling out Pikmin.





If you wake up to
The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild's

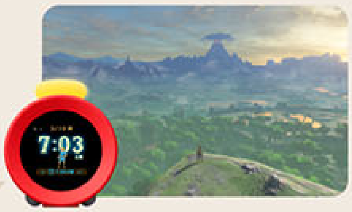
"Awakening to Adventure" alarm:

7:00 AM The alarm starts

Princess Zelda wakes you up

The same voice that woke Link from his century-long sleep will wake you up for your new day.

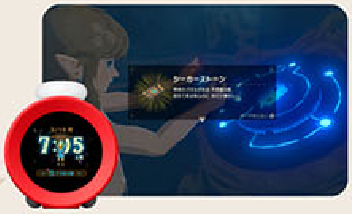
7:03 AM Dosing off in bed… Oh! It's that song!



♪Main theme

The sound will change if you move around. The song that played when Link first sets out on his adventure will invite you to the outside world.

7:05 AM Conquer your sleepiness and get out of bed



♪Obtaining the Sheikah Slate

The clock will congratulate you with the sound you hear when you get the ancient relic. A small victory to boost your morning.

7:20 AM If you stay in bed for too long…

♪Guardian attack

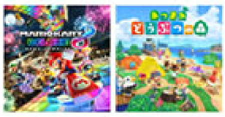
An agitated enemy arrives. The intense music and the sound of the Guardian homing in on you will ensure you get out of bed.

Character

The on-screen character, like Mario or Link, will respond to your actions by moving around. They will follow you left and right on the screen and will do a special movement if you come closer to the clock.

Updates

If you connect Alarmo to the internet, you will be able to download new alarm sounds as well as hardware updates.



*For more information about additional alarm sounds and their release dates, please see the official website.
*A free Nintendo Account is required to download additional alarm sounds.

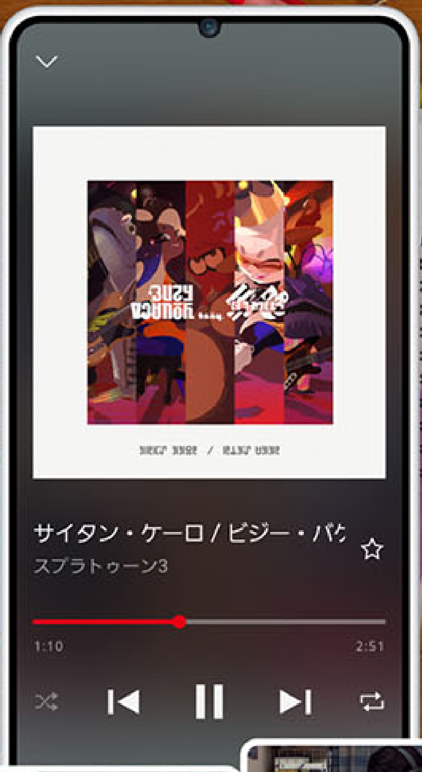
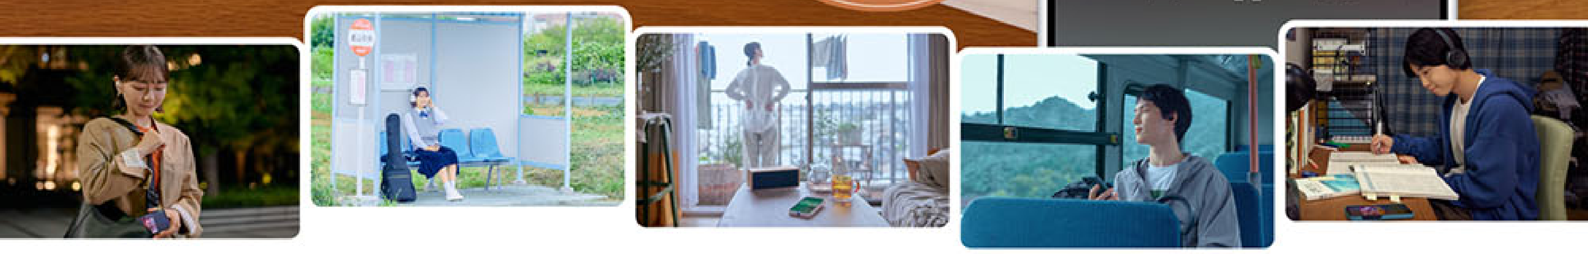
Game Music Collection

Bring Nintendo game music into your daily life

Have you ever been encouraged or healed by game music? With Nintendo Music, the new service under Nintendo Switch Online, you can enjoy such game music on your smartphone. Here are some of the game music that is currently available, sorted by suggested situations.

You can listen to samples of the music introduced.





At the start of a new day

Some refreshing music perfectly fit to start off your day with. These tracks may help you get a head start in your wonderful day.

A Stroll through the South Province

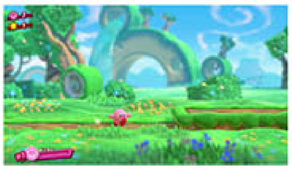
Pokémon Scarlet and Pokémon Violet

This track is characterized by the piano sounds resembling the strokes of wind breezing through the vast nature of the Paldea region in which these games take place. It marks the beginning of a day like an adventure filled with new encounters.

Green Gardens

Kirby Star Allies

This is the track from the first meadow level. It's perfect for inhaling fresh morning air and getting ready for the day.



Walking

Nintendogs

As the name suggests, this track is perfectly fit for a day that starts with a walk. It may make your morning walks even more fun.

Taking a breather

Some music you can relax with in between chores, studying, work, and busy daily life

The Roost

Animal Crossing: New Horizons

This track can be heard within the café "The Roost" that a silent barista runs in a corner of the museum as a relaxation spot for island residents. The calm melody of the piano offers a moment of peace. How about enjoying some me-time reading or relaxing within the daily life?

◀ Have a calm coffee break

Lurelin Village

The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild

This track can be heard in a nature-abundant village that sits quietly by the sea. You can forget the time and lay back as if you've come to a tropical island.

Family

Super Mario Galaxy

This is a relaxed track that makes you feel the bond between Rosalina and the Lumas. How about reminiscing on the conversations and memories you've had with your precious family?

After school or work…

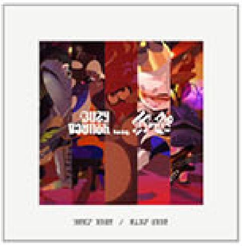
It's your well-deserved free time!
How about getting pumped up with some up-tempo tracks?

Jump Up, Super Star! - New Donk City Festival

Super Mario Odyssey

This is the vocal song by Pauline, the mayor of New Donk City which appears in the game. Even Mario can't help but dance to this light jazz rhythm, so be careful your body won't naturally move to the rhythm!

◀ It may make you want to put on a gorgeous costume to sing and dance



Tentacle to the Metal / Damp Socks feat. Off the Hook

Splatoon 3

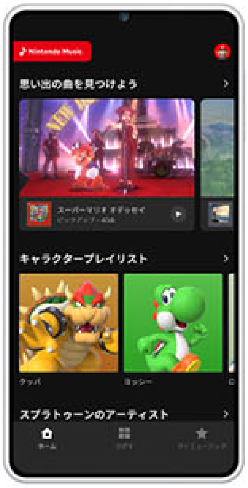
This track features an intense beat and intense vocals. It will definitely boost your energy for the exciting day ahead.

Star Wolf's Theme

Star Fox 64

This is the track for the battle with the fated rival "Star Wolf." Listen to this fast-tempo track to hurry to meet up with your friend!

You can listen to these tracks with Nintendo Music.



What you can do with Nintendo Music.

You can listen to various game music by title. More is planned to be added from time to time.

You can extend the length of some of the tracks, so they can be used as background music.

Can you close a cold case?

The missing girl's case from 12 years ago

On February 5, 2012, a girl named Seowon, who was playing in a park, suddenly went missing. The investigation was terminated without any clues or evidence leading to the culprit. 12 years later, a young policewoman comes to visit Jeon Gyeong, a former police inspector who was involved in the investigation at the time. As they trace back Jeon Gyeong's memories together, they quickly realize one fact: everyone involved in the case was lying about something.

Reorganize past testimonies to get to the bottom of the case

The "testimonies" of the people involved at the time, as told by Jeon Gyeong, are in a state of disarray as to who said what and when. The player must decipher the information and timeline of each testimony and sort them out correctly. Like pieces of a puzzle, as you reorganize the testimonies one by one, you will discover the truth that was unknown 12 years ago. Why were they all lying? And why was the case left unsolved?
